Qu'est-ce que Halloween ?

Halloween est un fête anglo-saxonne qui se déroule dans la nuit du 31 octobre au 1<sup>er</sup> novembre.

Les enfants se déguisent et font le tour des maisons pour demander des friandises (a treat).

Comment fête-t-on Halloween ?

Traditionnellement, pendant la nuit (the night), les enfants portent des costumes effrayants (scary). Ils se déguisent en créatures souvent détestées et craintes (qui font peur) telles que fantômes (a ghost), squelettes (a skeleton) vampires (a vampire), zombies (a zombie) ou sorcières (a witch).

Ils sonnent aux portes des gens pour demander des bonbons (a sweet, a candy) ou des pâtisseries (a pastry). Les petits anglophones utilisent la formule "trick or treat !« (des bonbons ou un sort) pour demander leurs friandises.

Traditionnellement, on creuse une citrouille (a pumpkin) en lui faisant un visage terrifiant (terrifying) et on la place sur les rebords de fenêtres.

On la surnomme Jack, d'après la légende du terrible (awful) Jack.

Happy Halloween song for kids

It's the terrifying night of Halloween
There are dreadful, awful, things we are seeing
Something is flying on a broom
What's that ? It's a witch ! Run fast ! It's a witch ! Run fast !

a witch

It's the terrifying night of Halloween
There are dreadful, awful, things we are seeing
...
It's a skeleton ! What's that ? It's a skeleton ! Run fast ! It's a skeleton ! Run fast !

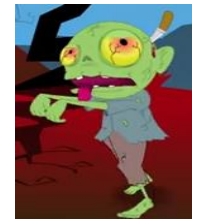

a skeleton

It's the terrifying night of Halloween
There are dreadful, awful, things we are seeing
I see very pointed teeth.
What's that ? It's a vampire ! Run fast ! It's a vampire ! Run fast !

a vampire

It's the terrifying night of Halloween
There are dreadful, awful, things we are seeing
Something's rising from the ground.
What's that ? It's a zombie ! Run fast, It's a zombie ! Run fast !

a zombie

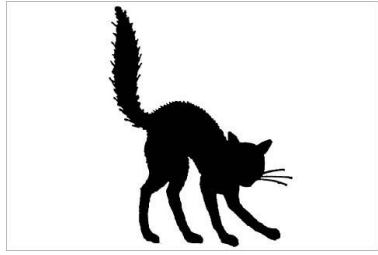

It's the terrifying night of Halloween
There are dreadful, awful, things we are seeing
Something's floating in the air.
What's that ? It's a ghost ! Run fast ! It's a ghost ! Run fast !
